

HONORING THE LIFE OF ERIN FRASER

(Mr. CARTER of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. CARTER of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of Savannah Regional Film Commission Director Erin Fraser.

Erin was born in New York City in 1969. She graduated at the top of her class at Sleepy Hollow High School in Tarrytown, New York. After high school, she attended Oxford College of Emory University.

Erin's storybook career in the entertainment production industry began as a senior assistant to "Saturday Night Live's" Lorne Michaels. With Lorne, she helped in the development and launch of Conan O'Brien's "Late Night" show, as well as working on "Wayne's World 2," "Tommy Boy," and "Black Sheep."

Erin was named Savannah Regional Film Commission executive director on December 13, 2022. During her time as executive director, she made a tremendous impact on the office and the entertainment production community.

Erin married her husband Jay in September of 1997. They have three children, all of whom are either alumni or current students at Emory University.

She will be dearly missed by all who knew her. Our thoughts and prayers are with her and her family.

STANDING WITH EASTERN NORTH CAROLINA FARMERS

(Mr. DAVIS of North Carolina asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DAVIS of North Carolina. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to stand with farmers. For decades, farmers across eastern North Carolina have been left behind.

As a member of the House Agriculture Committee, addressing barriers to our farmers' growth and success has to be a significant priority for us.

Our farmers are struggling to break even because input costs for items like fertilizer and fuel are rising faster than commodity prices. This imbalance forces farmers to pass unaffordable input costs on to the consumers.

Mr. Speaker, I know we can ease the financial burden of farmers and consumers alike by championing rural development initiatives.

Let's allow our farmers to do what they do best: feed America, because at the end of the day, food security is national security.

REMEMBERING KEVIN A. LAWLER

(Mr. LAWLER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LAWLER. Mr. Speaker, it is hard to believe Tuesday will mark 10 years since my dad passed away from cancer at the age of 54.

When I think back on that moment in my life, I will never forget the last conversation that we had when he told me to always keep my moral compass, to always do God's work, and that to whom much is given, much is required.

Hopefully, over the last decade since his passing, I have lived up to his expectations as a person, as a son, as a brother, and now as a husband and father.

My dad was a recovering alcoholic. He had been sober for 20 years when he passed.

What was remarkable at his death was that over 1,300 people showed up—half of whom I had never met in my life. Almost all of them said how much "Kevin L." helped them to become sober and to live their life in a purposeful way.

I can think of no better way to honor his memory than to see the lives that he impacted during his lifetime.

So, Mr. Speaker, it is my privilege to enter his name, "Kevin A. Lawler," into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD and remember him on what will be the 10th anniversary of his passing.

CONGRATULATING CAPTAIN JANET DAYS

(Mr. PAYNE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to congratulate Captain Janet Days during Women's History Month.

Captain Days is the first African-American female to be the commanding officer of the U.S. Naval Station Norfolk. This naval station is the largest naval base in the world. It is the hub of U.S. Naval operations in the Atlantic, Europe, and the Caribbean, and Captain Days is an exceptional choice to lead the station.

In her distinguished military career, she has earned seven Navy and Marine Corps Commendation Medals, two Army Commendation Medals, and a Defense Meritorious Service Medal.

She has served on several ships, including the aircraft carrier USS David D. Eisenhower during Operation Enduring Freedom.

She is an American hero, and I am proud to honor her accomplishments on the floor today.

RECOGNIZING STRAUB BREWERY IN ST. MARY'S PENNSYLVANIA

(Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. THOMPSON of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the outstanding management of Straub Brewery in St. Mary's, Pennsylvania, whose vice president, Cathy Lenze, recently earned the Patriot Award for her exceptional support of military employees.

The Patriot Award is awarded by the Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve to recognize supervisors with outstanding commitment to support citizen warriors through a wide range of measures, including flexible schedules, time off prior to and after deployment, caring for families, and granting leaves of absence, if needed.

Cathy Lenze was nominated for the award by Straub employee Sergeant First Class Wendy Traynor.

Since 1872, Straub Brewery has had a long tradition of excellence in brewing and operations. Now in its seventh generation of family ownership, Straub has endured over a century and a half of changes, including Prohibition, and remains a proud part of life and history for western Pennsylvania.

Mr. Speaker, as the proud father of a U.S. Army soldier, I commend Straub Brewery and its vice president, Cathy Lenze, for their example to businesses throughout our community for their commitment to our Nation's heroes.

REMEMBERING COACH JIM VALVANO

(Ms. ROSS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. ROSS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Coach Jim Valvano, known to basketball fans everywhere as "Jimmy V."

Forty years ago this month, the beloved NC State head coach led his underdog team to the 1983 NCAA championship. Against the odds, the Wolfpack triumphed over number one seed Houston with a game-winning dunk in the final seconds.

Coach Valvano's spirit has inspired so many on and off the court. He is also remembered for his dedication to finding a cure for cancer after his own diagnosis.

While he lost his battle with the disease, Jimmy V never stopped fighting for others. Today, his legacy lives on through the V Foundation for Cancer Research.

This week, as North Carolinians are watching the ACC tournament, we are reminded of Coach Valvano's inspirational words: "Don't give up. Don't ever give up." Go, Pack.

BLATANT FEDERAL OVERREACH

(Mr. ALLEN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, President Biden's proposed waters of the United States rule is a blatant example of Federal overreach. The rule will lead to further regulatory burdens on our farmers, and it gives unelected bureaucrats more power to dictate how landowners manage their own property.

Under this new guidance, the EPA would have broad authority to determine what is considered a navigable
